Havana, By Cable.-Major Gen. eral Jose Miguel Gomez was inaugurated President of the restored Cuban republic Thursday at noon and within an hour after he had taken the solemn oath of office administered by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, the American officials who had been in control of affairs since the autumn of 1906 had departed from the island

The American provisional Governor, Charles E. Magoon, who escorted General Gomez to the palace and there turned over to him the reins of government, sailed on the new Maine. The Maine was followed by the battleship Mississippi and the army transport McClellan. A swarm of small vessels joined in the procession out of the harbor.

A Cuban gunboat also accompanied the ships some little distance to sea with a band-on board playing from time to time the Cuban national anthem. Earlier in the day Governor Magoon and President-elect Gomez were seated side by side in the carriage en route to the palace in the wake of a galloping escort of rural guards or native cavalry there was silence on the part of the holiday throngs who lined the sidewalks. Hats were lifted as the carriage swept by, and the salutes were returned in the same manner by the Governor and General Gomez. At night fireworks burned throughout the city in the same profusion that characterize the 4th of July in the United States, and the cafes were gay with music and singing. About 3.000 troop are still on the island under the command of Major General Thomas L. Barry. These will be returned to the United States as fast as the transport service will permit, the last of the troops leaving on April 1st. Cuba begins her new period of independence under conditions which seem as propitious as could be evolved. Peace reigns from the western extremities of Pindar del Ria to the eastern promontories of Santiago province, and no disturbing tremen is anywhere in evidence.
